

How to Craft a Driving Question

Planning Project Based Learning, PBL

As you plan a project, the first step is writing a driving question. This is something you can do with students or incorporate student voice in.

Driving Questions Must Include:

Question	Action-taker(s)	Action	Recipient	Impact
"How can..." "What can..." "In what ways can..."	Who will participate in the PBL? What is the career connection?	What will youth do or create?	Who the project will impact?	What is the intended purpose or goal?

What are the needs of the youth?

What's your project idea?

What is your driving question?
